

TechFreedom is a non-profit, non-partisan tech policy think tank based on Capitol Hill in Washington, DC. Our mission is to educate the public, policymakers and thought leaders about public policies approaches that enable technology to flourish and improve the human condition. We're working to advance public policies that encourage and reward experimentation, entrepreneurship, and investment. We seek interns to assist our work in tech and telecom law and policy, especially those issues before the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

Interns will have the opportunity to work on a wide range of technology related policy issues, such as privacy, data security, net neutrality, FTC reform, Internet regulation, free speech, and regulation of commercial outer space activities. Interns will research and track pending legislation impacting technology policy, attend Hill briefings and hearing and provide both written and oral summaries, research key policy issues, contribute to, review, fact-check, and were practical, cite check Press Releases, White Papers, and legal briefs.

Interested students are encouraged to familiarize themselves with TechFreedom's work, and should submit:

- Cover Letter
- Resume
- Transcript
- Short writing sample

Please email packages to:

Dan Benavente

dbenavente@techfreedom.org

